

WAX SCULPTURE by James Brock, western artist, is 'gated' and ready for the long bronzing process.

INGOTS OF BRONZE are placed in 1,900 degree furnace by Frank Lyons as Brock prepares to assist.

LIQUID BRONZE is poured into plaster cast by sculptor James Brock. This was the first bronze cast in the new foundry.

Local Artist Opens Foundry For Bronze

James Brock, western artist whose studio and gallery north of Cameron has attracted hundreds of visitors in the past year, has expanded his workshop area to include a foundry when his wax sculptures will be cast in bronze.

Frank Lyons, artist and foundry operator at Taos, New Mexico, has been in Cameron for the past week assisting Brock in setting up the foundry here and was on hand when the first bronze was poured Tuesday morning.

Days of work went into getting that first bronze cast. First the foundry equipment was set up, then the selected sculpture prepared. This includes 'gating' the wax piece, or to the layman, inserting metal tubes at strategic points where the bronze will enter.

Next, the work is coated with an investment material in several steps. This is covered with a chicken wire form and reinforced with a thick coat of another plaster investment material. The completed block is baked in a kiln and the original wax is burned out (this is called the 'lost wax' method because each piece of sculpture must be re-made in wax for a bronze cast.)

The completed cast is put directly from the kiln into a box of sand and then packed in more sand in preparation for the bronze.

Ingots of bronze are melted in a furnace at a heat of about 1,900 degrees. This metal is then poured into the plaster cast.

The next step is the tedious job of cutting away the plaster cast, cutting off the gates, cleaning and sanding the bronze.

The bronze is then painted with an acid for the desired color tone, and the sculpture is placed back in the kiln to 'age' at a temperature of about 300 degrees.

The final step is a fine coat of wax to seal the color tone.

Brock said he would cast his smaller pieces in his foundry at Cameron. Larger figures will still be done in New Mexico.

Contract Talks Underway For Alcoans

Collective bargaining negotiations between Aluminum Company of America and the United Steelworkers of America on the labor agreement covering Rockdale Works and eight other Alcoa plants are currently in session in New York City, according to Alcoa officials.

The talks began in that city on April 12 and the negotiators are attempting to work out a new contract before the current contract's scheduled expiration date of May 31.

Rockdale Works Safety and Security Supervisor Allen E. Menke attended opening discussions in the bargaining talks held April 12 through 16. Personnel Manager Duane M. Nystrom is now in New York representing the local plant in the negotiations which reconvened on April 27.

The current three-year agreement, also negotiated in New York City, was signed into effect on June 1, 1968. It covers eight Alcoa locations, including Rockdale Works and Point Comfort Operations.

Marshall Works, Alcoa's third and newest plant location in Texas, which began production in 1969, is now being included in negotiations with the USWA.

Primary aluminum ingot, and rod are the main products produced at Rockdale Works, which has about 1300 Alcoans represented by USWA Local 4895.

Point Comfort Operations is covered by USWA Local 4370, with about 1545 Alcoans in the bargaining unit. Point Comfort's main products include primary aluminum, fabricating ingot, remelt ingot, oil and gas, and alumina.

USWA Local 7624, which represents about 185 Alcoans, is the local bargaining unit at Marshall Works where electrical conductor is produced.

The USWA (headquartered in Pittsburgh) is representing a total of about 10,000 Alcoans. The other Alcoa plants engaged in the talks with the USWA are Tennessee Operations, Arkansas Operations, Badin (N.C.) Works, Mobile (Ala.) Works, New Kensington (Pa.) Works, and Richmond (Ind.) Works.

2-Car Collision Injures Four

A two car accident Tuesday afternoon sent four persons to a local hospital, but none were critically injured. The accident occurred about 4:30 p.m. at the intersection of Highway 77 and Farm Road 485.

Injured were Gerald A. Ross of San Antonio, a passenger in a car driven by Michael Wade Sanders of Waco, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Mouser of Bryan, and Mrs. Ruby Boyd of Houston, all riding in the car that collided with the Sanders vehicle.

The Mouser car, driven by Mrs. Mouser, was traveling east on 485 and the Sanders car was traveling north on 77. The Mouser car turned over, knocking down highway signs, and came to rest on its top in the eastbound lane of Highway 190.

The injured were taken to a local hospital suffering from cuts and Ross had possible internal injuries.

DPS Patrolman Leroy Broadus was the investigating officer.

With F.M.L.

Sometimes, candor is the only thing left I think those friends who remark on our comments about the downtown and school here.

I support those who do something. That's simple enough, I guess. Sometime, even, it takes courage to acknowledge such friendship. To those who do, I am appreciative. I apologize to those who vocalize agreement with this column and are likewise ridiculed by willy-nilly public opinion.

Friend James Brock molds figures in wax and bronze. I mold opinion, quite often only my own. The aim is to look at a different view, and think Brock will tell you "it ain't easy" to mold wax. I'll tell you "it ain't easy" to mold opinion.

If I were doctrinaire and laboriously consistent, it would be a lot more comfortable for everybody. People prefer to think, when they do, in bits and pieces and labels.

But my view is that every evidence and every argument, every demonstrable fact is often inconsistently placed and isolated, to be searched and found, if that is possible.

If you have ever been lost in a woods, or in heavy waters along an angry coastline, you know directions are not always easy to define.

You are not asked to agree. Only steel your view of things with better lining, better footing.

And when you do this, you'll be surprised how your tracks will meander and cross themselves, until you find a better way or a better idea. It may not be where you intended to go at all, but you reached a goal.

You may be assured of one thing: when a conclusion does develop, you'll read it here. And it will be clear cut, even when it is tediously developed.

Friends probably are unaware of who they all are. You can be assured they are diverse, and interesting, and have something to offer, in their special way, to this world. If they all met in one place, it would be complex.

This is one of numerous advantages of meeting and knowing people and learning what they really think and would like to do. Not so much to write of all these things, but to gain an insight into that complex of mentality and personality which comprises a close friend or an unfriendly reader, but a reader.

He nor I is any better for playing life as if it were a popularity contest. In final analysis, we all know better.

Historic Heirlooms Grace Martin Home

When the John Martin house at 404 W. 4th St. was built in 1897 it was set on a rise to catch the evening breeze and overlooked a quiet lane. The lane has become a busy highway since that time and air conditioning has replaced the less dependable breeze, but inside the house retains the feeling of the turn of the century days.

The five room Victorian style home will be open to the public on the pilgrimage of homes tour during Folk Fete, Saturday June 12.

The house was built by William Frier-son, an early Cameron contractor, for Miss Ada Henderson who was a first grade teacher in the Cameron Public Schools for 50 years.

The original house was expanded to eight rooms when Miss Henderson opened her home to her widowed brother's five children, including Mrs. Martin, the present owner.

A sense of Texas history will greet pilgrimage guests as they enter the Martin home. In the foyer is a massive couch, once owned by Sam Houston and used in his residence at Independence, Texas. A Mission period clock and Windsor style chairs compliment the Sam Houston couch.

In the parlor four guests will see a prized set of five curved-back chairs that were used in the first Supreme Court of Texas. Also of note in this room are Victorian couches and a stately school master's desk.

Over the parlor mantel is a portrait of Mrs. Martin's grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Bradford Law, niece of the historically famous Gov. Bradford of Massachusetts.

In the dining room the afternoon sun is softened by a collection of antique glassware on high window shelves. Other shelves and cabinets display a collection of priceless china and colorful 125 year old French lusterware. The dining table is an early American drop-leaf style.

A large oak round table dominates the sunlit breakfast room. Here a wall of windows open the room to a tree shaded backyard.

On one wall in the wide hall that separates the dining room and master bedroom, the Martins have hung a treasured shaving cabinet that belonged to Mr. Martin's father.

The master bedroom also serves as a favorite sitting room. Here a wash stand now serves as a writing desk and other furnishings are original pieces placed in the room when the house was built.

The front bedroom, with birdseye maple furnishings, welcomes sunlight through a large south window framed by stained glass squares. A coverlet in this room was a pre-Civil War wedding gift. It was made in Kentucky and is woven of purple and olive green threads. A medallion design centers the coverlet and the border is the trademark deer and homestead design.

Other furnishings of interest are the family heirloom andirons in the fireplace and ornately framed print over the mantel. A Spanish influence fireside chair in the front bedroom was hand carved by Mrs. Martin's step-mother in intricate flower design.

Throughout the house are framed photographs of interesting scenes in Texas and Mexico taken by Mr. Martin.

FOLK FETE BELLE Laura Bowman shows two antique chairs that will be on display at the John Martin home, 404 W. 4th St., during the pilgrimage of historic homes. The chairs are two of a set of five that were in the first Supreme Court of Texas.

A Living Story...

It is timely to note, with Folk Fete coming up, that Cameron Public Library plays a distinctive role in the Fete's development.

Library Friends a few years ago instituted a series of programs which introduced lectures, music and reviews to a cross section of the community as compared to small study clubs.

This idea of culture, coupled with the art shows brought here by Texas Fine Arts Commission at Cameron's behest, was a base on which the ethnic dance idea built Folk Fete.

Friends of the Library carry on this tradition and continue to have opportunity to update what is begun. The Cameron Library Board has equal opportunity to build the scope of presentation, until it is as diverse as art and culture itself.

If anything has helped Cameron find its history, its Milam beginnings even before the Texas Republic, Cameron Public Library, on whose grounds the Fete's art show will be held, has done it. It is giving perspective to a diverse community of people and ideas which compatibility alone helps each particular group mature in its own view of things.

Most people think culture is stuffy. The word often con-notes that. Many think opera is dull, because it is in foreign language. A translation shows opera is anything but dull. The same for art, the classic or the new: like everybody else, artists are people and are telling their gifted way just how they see things.

The other evening a commercial showed a man sitting on a chair, with a picture hanging in the background, a record player beside him, reading a book.

One by one, these items were taken from him, demonstrating by the colorless, soundless, mindless picture remaining what art does for man.

If we concentrate more on what people create, we can appreciate the reason for art and the gift the artist possesses.

Cameron Public Library is a translator of these aspects of art, a teller of people's stories, the fascinating and excruciating act of creation, the expression of one person's view for others to see, whether written, drawn, sculpted, acted, sung, danced, even baked or sewn.

Cameron Public Library is a center of arts around which real people trace a living story, a story like Folk Fete.

For Mission Parks...

A bill to establish a Milam state park received hearing Monday night at the old Texas Supreme Court.

Several Milam Countians interested in history of the Gabriel area missions and the possibilities of state-wide tourism were appearing, speaking of general interest in the three sites becoming part of a park.

The bill has been introduced by Rep. Dan Kubiak, of Rockdale. And it is timely. With Cameron's move toward major tourist interest with Folk Fete, the increase of through-traffic in Cameron and general awakening of the Milam area, these sites of Nuestra Lenora de la Candelaria, San Francisco de los Dolores and San Ildefonso are ideal points for a major park.

We highly commend the project to the interest of Milam Countians. These sites pre-date the American Revolution, any penetration of Texian development by almost a century. They were the northern most reach of Spanish soldiers and priests. They have been subject of historians about 130 years, even before Milam County was opened up in the 1830's.

This history deserves preservation and development for the obvious contemporary values to Milam County. We would be remiss not to support the legislation and development of such a park.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Every five years, assuming you are an Average American, you will give up one residence and move to another. If this involves selling your home, and if you make a profit, do you have to pay income tax on the amount of the gain?

Generally, no—provided that you buy another house within one year. The federal government will usually allow you a tax deferral, on the theory that the sale is not an ordinary business deal but a matter of personal necessity.

But in order to qualify for the tax deferral, you must fully meet the conditions that the law lays down. For example, you are second house must be not only bought but actually occupied within the one-year limit.

In one case, a man moving to another city bought a house that needed remodeling. The work took considerable time, and his family was still living in a rented apartment by the time the year was up.

Nevertheless, he tried to get a tax deferral by arguing that at least his intentions were clear by the time of the deadline.

But a court turned him down. The judge said the law was based not on what a person intended to do but on what he did.

In another case, a man failed to buy a second house within the year solely because of a sudden illness. Was this an acceptable excuse? Again, a court said no. The court said the law "is unambiguous and leaves no room for interpretation because of unfortunate circumstances," adding:

"We are powerless to rewrite the statute."

Governor Smith Gets 'Fat' Trimmed Off Tax Bill

By Vern Sanford

Gov. Preston Smith surprised Texas lawmakers by announcing he would veto the $900 million tax bill passed by the House and Senate unless they "cut out the fat."

He contended that this measure provided $300 million more than was needed.

After an anxious 24 hours, a compromise began to emerge, and the House and Senate satisfied the Governor by knocking out a $287 million gasoline tax raise (two cents on the gallon). Smith found that feature the "most repulsive" in the giant revenue-raising measure.

Governor said he would sign the bill without the gasoline tax increase.

With this problem once more hopefully resolved lawmakers turned to a hurry-up job of completing major mandatory duties and hundreds of minor ones before the May 31 adjournment date.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes expressed confidence that the tough congressional and legislative redistricting job can be accomplished in two weeks.

Other pending business, given high priority by federal court action invalidating state laws, includes passage of a new voter registration act and lowering political filing fees.

Legislators plan to add other revenue with a $40 million mixed drink tax, $22 million additional gallonage levy on liquor and wine and a $3 million increase in out-of-state college tuition.

Lawmakers, already have started a quick-time march to meet the adjournment deadline. Most of the bills introduced since the opening day last January will clear during the next 10 days.

HELP MAKE RAIN

Federal aid through weather modification experiments aimed at bringing rain for bone dry areas of Texas has been promised, Governor Smith announced.

Operational details of a cloud-seeding project will be coordinated with the U.S. Department of Defense, the Bureau of Reclamation of the Interior Department and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Smith said he is hopeful that this step may bring President Nixon to realize the "tragic extent of the drought disaster in Texas." He pointed out that half of the wheat crop already has been lost to drought and that agricultural production income loss would be more than half a billion dollars if the drought were broken immediately.

LAND BONDS SOLD

Veterans Land Board sold $23.5 million in bonds to continue financing the veterans land program of low-interest, long-term farm-ranch loans.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong said the sale will enable another 3,000 Texas veterans to get loans under the revived program.

Bonds were sold just under the constitutional interest rate ceiling -- at 4.4992 per cent. Ceiling is 4.5 per cent. Buyers included the Harris Trust and Savings Bank, Bankers Trust Company, Northern Trust Company, Chase Manhattan Bank N. S., Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Company, First National Bank in Dallas and 41 others.

Armstrong said that there were three other bids of $30 million in bonds offered for sale. Buyers represented all areas of the country.

AIRPORT GRANT RECEIVED

Federal Aviation Administration approved a $419,974 grant to Texas for a comprehensive study of future airport development needs.

Funds, together with $209,987 in state money, will be used to develop an airport systems plan for Texas. Grant seeks development of a plan that can be used to forecast regional and statewide demands for air transportation.

COURTS SPEAK

State Supreme Court in a Potter County case held that signing by an injured person of a release settling a damage claim is valid only for that person and no other involved in the dispute.

High Court told four contractors for San Antonio's HemisFair '68 that they couldn't collect on deferred payment certificates and unsold tickets which they received for partial payment of their services. Firms sued City of San Antonio, San Antonio Fair Inc. and San Antonio Urban Renewal Agency.

Austin District Judge Herman Jones enjoined the sale of historical (1755-1846) documents, "The Laredo Archives," to which the state lays claim. Value is estimated at from $350,000 to $1 million.

One who kills with a weapon not generally classed as deadly must be permitted to testify as to intent, Court of Criminal Appeals ruled.

Third Court of Civil Appeals upheld the 1968 Railroad Commission turn-down of an application by Southern Pacific Transportation Company to transfer the company railroad agency from El Paso to El Paso.

AG OPINIONS

Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin has held that the Parks and Wildlife Commission and similar state agencies can be increased in size by adding new members without abolishing present boards.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that:

* A school board may contract with a teacher whose first cousin has been elected to the board but has not taken oath.

Contract remains valid after the relative qualifies for office.

* A pupil promoted to a high school grade not taught in the

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

NICE GUYS WON'T STOP ILLEGAL DRUG IMPORTS

REP. LEE H. HAMILTON (Ind.) "...I have been joined by 61 of my colleagues in the introduction of H.R. 7821, a bill to prohibit economic assistance to foreign countries which do not act to prevent narcotic drugs from unlawfully entering the United States."

"If heroin was produced in this country, we could take those measures necessary to shut off the source of the narcotics. But the opium poppy, the plant from which heroin is made, is not grown in the United States."

"The head of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs at the Justice Department, John Ingersoll, has pointed out that only the limitation on the smuggling of illegal narcotics into this country is the imagination of the smuggler. It has been estimated that there are 32,000 places on a freighter where drugs could be hidden."

"In 1970, 3,383 pounds of opium were seized compared with 290 pounds in 1969. Yet, these are tiny amounts when matched against the 40 tons estimated to be entering the country each year, smuggled in everything from ski poles to the official diplomatic mail."

"A quick rundown, of the major - opium - producing countries' efforts to control illicit production and export does not leave much grounds for optimism concerning their ability to stop the drug flow unassisted."

"TURKEY: Turkey is the source of about 80 percent of the opium used in the United States. The Turkish opium farmer must sell his legal output to the Government. For whatever he can divert and sell to illegal buyers, however, he gets about three times the legal rate. Efforts to wipe out this illegal production are proceeding slowly, but have become bogged down in internal politics."

"SOUTHEAST ASIA: Burma, Laos, and Thailand grow the bulk of the opium crop which comes out of this area each year. In Burma the Government is incapable of halting production, while in Laos the (Laotian) army is engaged in the opium traffic and the (Laotian) air force helps transport the crop."

"I agree with the statement of a U.S. narcotic agent that: 'THE TIME HAS COME TO STOP BEING NICE GUYS AROUND THE WORLD. THIS PROBLEM IS SERIOUS.'"

"This is a tough bill, but so is the problem with which it deals. Since the cause of drug addiction comes from beyond our borders so must the cure. It is unfortunate that such blunt prompting as aid termination is necessary, but the extent of the drug addiction is even more unfortunate."

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

Promoting drug addiction in this country is a dirty business.

The U.S. Government is in a position to take strong measures to reduce the importing of illegal narcotics. The bill should pass. -J.C.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

In an article I ran across in a newspaper last night, this fellow Ralph Nader was arguing that Congress ought to pass a law to stop the automobile industry from changing models every year and take the money saved and invent a car that's pollution free.

I'm in favor of pollution-less cars, but I'm not sure Mr. Nader understands the economy of this country. A fast turnover seems to be the key to a booming economy.

Take pianos. The piano industry has rocked along for generations without ever hitting on the idea of coming out with a new model every year and as a result it considers itself lucky if it sells a family one piano in a lifetime, and how many people does it employ? Just a few thousand, compared with hundreds of thousands in the auto industry. Piano workers could strike tomorrow and the economy would never know it. Probably couldn't even make the TV evening news.

Or take the plumbing industry. Have you ever stopped to think how much bigger an industry it'd be, how many more people it'd employ, if it'd convince housewives they ought to change bathtubs every year? It never occurred to the industry all it had to do was change fender designs, add hide-away faucets and maybe add safety belts.

Also, blacksmiths haven't changed the style of horseshoes in a hundred years, and how many blacksmiths are still around?

Or take probably the worst example, trains. You ever hear of the railroads changing models on engines and passenger cars every year? How many passenger trains are still left?

Probably the reason farmers are in such bad shape is they've been raising the same brand of meat and potatoes for the last 1,000 years. Can you tell a 1971 hen egg from a 1910 model?

Or take people. We haven't had a model change in people in thousands of years, and look what shape the world's in today.

Model changes, that's what keeps the economy booming.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

County Agent's Notes

Time To Spray Pecan Trees

By J. D. Moore

Based on results of Pecan Nut casebearer development on banded trees at Anton Anderle and E. J. Provasek's trees, May 17 through May 21 are suggested dates for spraying pecan trees in Milam County. Materials to use are Toxaphene, Malathion and Cuthion.

Add a fungicide to the spray - For control of a leaf disease "pecan scab", Duter, Cyprex or Zineb at recommended rates should be mixed with the casebearer spray. Casebearer trees sprayed may contact Terry Hardwick, Cameron phone 697-6504 for public service.

CROP QUESTIONNAIRE

During the last half of May, some 22,000 Texas farmers will receive at their mailboxes a most important questionnaire from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in Austin.

It will be the annual acreage survey and many farmers in Milam County will be included in the 22,000. The information derived from the replies will be the basis for the official estimates of crop acreage for the State of Texas and for each county.

The Texas Legislature, explains the county agents, has provided a program of estimates for each county. Because Texas covers such a wide area, State totals alone do not provide adequate information on our most basic industry, hence, the need for county information.

The program is a cooperative effort of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Statistical Reporting Service and the Texas Department of Agriculture.

The county agent urges all farmers in the county who receive the questionnaire to fill it out accurately and completely and return it as soon as possible to the Reporting Service.

Weed Control In Cotton Can Test Growers Skill

COLLEGE STATION
Weed control in cotton under dry conditions is a situation that can test a grower's ability to use mechanical cultivation along with chemicals to effectively and economically protect his crop.

A post emergence herbicide is one way for growers to spray their way out of grass without spending money until it is necessary, according to Fred C. Elliott, Extension cotton specialist.

He noted that where low rainfall conditions are prevailing, Johnsongrass will usually emerge from greater depths than in periods when more moisture is available. Postemergence, laterally directed DSMA, would probably be most effective under these conditions, he advised.

Elliott added that if broadleaf weeds are mixed with the Johnsongrass, combinations of DSMA with materials such as Herban, Cotoran, Karmex, and Caparol should be used.

He reminded growers that in postemergence weed control programs, DSMA should be laterally directed and not used "over the top." Elliott noted that DSMA is a little milder on cotton and should be used during the growing season on young cotton in preference to MSMA.

MSMA is a little "hotter" on the Johnsongrass, but slightly more injurious to the cotton.

A preemergence program during dry conditions may require an increased amount of water in application, according to Elliott. In windy weather a wider angle nozzle might be used.

"If lateral oiling is used to control grass and weeds in young cotton and windy weather persists, narrow angle fan tips, used in connection with fender protection are advisable," Elliott commented.

In western areas of the state in sandy soils, some growers are using a procedure where incorporated herbicides can be applied in the water furrow with two and one-half gallons of water per acre on a band at a cost of less than one dollar per acre, he noted.

Local county agents can supply detailed information on the type of chemical weed control program best suited to a particular situation, Elliott said.

ALERT FOR SCREWORMS

The recent rains and humid weather could be a factor in the spread of screwworm flies. During April 13 cases were confirmed in Texas, compared to only one case for the same month a year ago. Livestock producers should continue to check animals for possible worm cases. When infested wounds are found, a sample of the worms should be collected and mailed to the Mission Laboratory for possible identification. Local county agents have collection kits available.

Dairy Food Tops June Plentiful

June is milk month! At least, the U.S. Department of Agriculture says milk and dairy products are in plentiful supply. So it is a great time to feature milk on your menus.

Milk production for the first quarter of 1971 was 1.0 percent greater than in 1970. Production levels for dairy products should be at their peak in June.

You'll find it easy to use the vast array of dairy products including ice cream, cheese, sour cream and butter to give your meals a boost.

Also included on the June Plentiful Foods List are broiler - fryers, eggs, dried peas, canned ripe olives and potatoes and potato products, especially frozen French fries and instant mashed. Quite a variety to brighten up June menus, so keep the list handy when you shop for groceries.

Horse Disease Moving North

U.S. Department of Agriculture animal health officials and livestockmen are keeping a sharp eye out for symptoms of a foreign virus disease of horses that has recently moved closer to the United States.

The disease, Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis (VEE), has moved northward from South and Central America into southern Mexico where about 6,000 horses were reported killed by the disease. Besides Mexico, the disease has been reported in 16 other countries in South and Central America.

VEE is an infectious disease of the central nervous system of horses that sometimes causes a mortality rate as high as 80-90 percent, according to officials of the USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

Symptoms include a rapid rise in body temperature up to 106 degrees accompanied by a rapid pulse rate, loss of appetite, and depression. Often the animal will walk in circles until it falls down. Death may occur in six to eight days.

Also, a horse may hang its head, press its head against objects, assume a cross-legged stance, show a "drifting" gait or appear drowsy, say animal health officials.

There are several types of the virus, but the one responsible for the clinical disease in horses isn't found in the United States. Transmission of the virus to man and animals usually occurs through bites of infected mosquitoes, officials added.

Positive diagnosis of VEE is possible only after laboratory tests because it resembles two common types of encephalomye-

ASCS NEWS

By Douglas Buck

Texas farmers and ranchers helped earn national recognition in President Nixon's recent White House salute to agriculture, according to Clarence A. Danklefs, Texas farm program leader.

The President, in a unique tribute to agricultural achievement, said, "Thanks to American agriculture for making us the best fed, the best clothed people in America; thanks to American agriculture for providing the basic industry that is essential for any nation to be strong."

He cited specifically a 300 percent per man-hour productivity increase for agriculture in the last 20 years, comparing it with the 150 percent increase recorded by other American industry.

Danklefs, who is Chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said all Texans should recognize that this national salute to agriculture is a salute to Texas farmers as well as those in the other 49 states.

Producers in Texas produce about 40 percent of the Nation's cotton, about 50 percent of the Nation's grain sorghum and about 20 percent of the Nation's rice. During the last 20 years the per-acre production on these crops has nearly doubled because of increased irrigation and improved cultural practices. Texans also contribute substantially to the Nation's supply of peanuts, wheat, vegetables, fruit and nuts.

"This is the kind of productivity the President was talking about when he said recent agricultural statistics are the most exciting, the most dramatic, of all American industry," Danklefs said.

"In our farm program agency, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, here in Texas, we are of course most interested in the crops under the set-aside farm programs, (corn, grain sorghum, wheat, and cotton), those under marketing quota programs, (peanuts, rice, extra long staple cotton) plus crops which are eligible for the loan, principally (soybeans, barley, oats, rye, dry beans, flaxseed, etc.)

Some 83,000 cotton farms, 120,000 feed grain farms and 48,500 wheat farms in Texas are participating this year in the new market-oriented set-aside farm programs. Some of the restraints on production and kinds of crops which were imposed in previous years have been removed, as was noted by President Nixon recently in a national speech on agriculture," Danklefs said.

"The President told the Nation that American farmers have proven their ability to capitalize on new opportunities and can compete successfully whenever they have the chance to compete. Mr. Nixon said he is determined to see that agriculture has that chance," the ASC Committee Chairman said.

The White House salute to agriculture not only drew national attention to farming, but also served to concentrate efforts to better American agriculture's competitive position, according to Danklefs.

State Ag Department Curtails Grass Disease

Prompt action by the Texas Department of Agriculture's Plant Quarantine Division has curtailed a disease that could have been a major threat to the state's stand of St. Augustine grass.

Charlie Chapman, head of TDA's Quarantine Division, said St. Augustine Decline (SAD) was spotted in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Result was a survey of 3,000 acres of land along the Texas Gulf Coast and in the Valley. Some new cases were found during the survey.

Chapman explained that the disease can kill grass within three to four years. Along growing period is needed for renovation.

"The grass is weakened to a point of death or invasion of weed plants," Chapman explained

He said one must remove all diseased roots and stolons to prevent reinfestation of newly sodded grass. To kill the remaining diseased grass springs, spraying with a herbicidal oil is required.

Symptoms of SAD were observed during 1966 in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, and have been identified in Houston, Austin, San Antonio, Fort Worth and other Texas cities and towns.

Chapman said the virus is mechanically transmissible pointing out that lawn mowing trials conducted in Corpus Christi and Weslaco indicate SAD can be spread by contaminated lawn mowers.

Bobby McCulley, entomologist for tda and stationed in Arlington, directed the survey, which took two weeks to complete.

Kubiak, Watson Differ In Viewing Tax Bill Problem

Rep. Dan Kubiak and Sen. Murray Watson expressed differing views of the threatened veto by Gov. Preston Smith of the $900 million plus tax bill in their newsletters this week.

Kubiak called the bill a "monstrosity" and said he was among some 25 legislators who went to the Governor and requested that he veto the tax bill, principally because it had about $500 million more than the Governor had recommended earlier.

Watson said he was "not completely satisfied with the tax bill we passed, but it appeared to be the best we could do at the time and still meet the State's anticipated obligations for the next two years."

Watson said he "saw some good features in the (gasoline) tax, one being that it was the only feature in the tax bill that could give the people of Texas some relief, while at the same time increasing the tax on an essential item -- gasoline."

He explained that the tax bill provided for the increased money to be used to purchase right-of-way with 100 percent of cost being paid for by the State "for our constantly growing highway system." This would relieve the hard-pressed property taxpayers of some of the burden of ad valorem taxation, he said.

Kubiak called the gasoline tax "the most repulsive feature" of the tax bill, and said it was pushed through the Senate by the Lieutenant Governor.

"In today's economy," Kubiak said, "gasoline is a necessity."

"Several Senators and Representatives have used an alibi for voting for this monstrosity because their constituents have demanded more services," Kubiak said.

Probated Sentences For Three

In the District Court of Milam County several cases were heard and disposed of on May 7, according to County Atty. John Henderson Jr.

Marcelino Lucio Jr. of Thrall pleaded guilty to the offense of forgery and received a two year probated sentence. One of the conditions of his probation was restitution for the amount of the forged check which was passed by Lucio and another subject to Forbes Grocery Store in Thorndale on October 27, 1970.

John E. Crisp of Midland pleaded guilty in two burglary cases. He received two two-year probated sentences for the burglary of the Mamie Menton Tavern and the Guy Draper Grocery Store on December 5, 1970.

Phillip Lock of Fort Hood pleaded guilty to the offense of possession of narcotics (marijuana) and received a three-year probated sentence.

Among other evidence considered by the Court was a letter of recommendation from Lock's commanding officer and a summary of his military record. Lock was arrested near Cameron on March 17, 1971 and found to be in possession of marijuana.

The appeal of the revocation of probation on Michael Charles Maddox was heard by the Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin on Wednesday, May 19. The probation of Maddox was revoked by the Court on a charge of robbery on April 8, 1970.

the Earth is HIS

The soil is God's priceless gift to man. It is a tangible gift neither plant, animal nor man can live without. We depend on soil for just about everything. Although a mixture of dead plants, animals, rocks and other forms of life, it constantly changes through weathering to retain its perpetual productivity. But man has upset its natural balance with tools and fire and set in motion damaging erosion. Americans are guilty, and that's what we've got to stop. Jeremiah said, and let us say with him, "The whole land is made desolate, because no man layeth it to his heart." Then grieved Jeremiah said, "They have sown wheat, but shall reap thorns." Oh, God, let us be good Stewards of His Precious Soil, for, surely This Earth Is His.

Rattan Furniture Becoming More Popular Indoors

Rattan furniture is becoming more and more popular because of its versatility, announces Jane Berry, Extension area housing and home furnishings specialist. Casual rattan pieces can be used for garden rooms, porches or sheltered patios, or it can join high-style furniture groups in any room of the house, Mrs. Berry explains. Versatile rattan, she adds, also takes wood-tone and color finishes well. And the furniture is now available as wicker or woven rattan in matchstick size.

Rattan and bamboo furniture are often confused, the specialist points out. Bamboo is a hollow, brittle grass; rattan is a solid vine-like wood, ranging in size from a few millimeters to about three inches in diameter. Two varieties of rattan are rattancore and cane, she says. Rattancore reed is the core of small diameter rattan often woven for chair backs or used for trim. Peel, also called cane, is the outside skin of rattan that has been shaved off and split into uniform strands. Cane is woven, while wet, into seats and backs for chairs, and is also used for wrapping joints on rattan furniture. Care for rattan furniture used indoors is much the same as for fine wood furniture. It should be dusted thoroughly when needed. Once a year frames should be washed with a cloth slightly dampened with a mild soap and water solution, then rinsed well and allowed to dry. A thorough waxing and polishing with liquid furniture wax will help preserve the natural appearance of rattan. If rattan chairs, tables and lounging pieces are used outside, they should be coated with a finish - either paint or varnish - to protect the wood from strong sunlight, high humidity and rain.

Pickups Exempted From Proposed Regulation

The proposed regulation governing drivers of pickup trucks will be "watered down" to accommodate farmers, according to a letter released by Sen. Murray Watson. The letter was from A. Ross Rommel, traffic safety administrator in Washington, D.C. Rommel replied in answer to a query by Sen. Watson about the pending proposal relating to the operation of farm vehicles. "Pickups will be exempt from the provision of the regulation," Rommel said. "Enforcement will be the responsibility of the Bureau of Motor Carrier Safety. Since the Bureau has no arrest powers, enforcement will be through investigation."
